

Eaton Square's Silicon Creates Partnership with Klear to Strengthen Critical Mineral Supply Chains

Providing global assurance and supply chain resilience for multinationals sourcing critical minerals

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, February 13, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Eaton Square today announced the strategic integration of its subsidiary, Silicon, with Klear Inc., a Capital Intelligence leader, creating a unified solution for multinational energy and industrial clients. This partnership enables clients to confidently source, manage, and deliver critical minerals through resilient, intelligence-driven supply chains that integrate financial visibility, liquidity management, and operational assurance. Together, they are increasing global supply chain resiliency while expediting sourcing and trade finance for high-value, high-consequence operations.

By combining intelligence-driven sourcing with treasury and liquidity management, multinational clients gain agility, visibility, and confidence in securing critical minerals and advanced materials.”

Chris Hale, CEO of Klear

The partnership positions Eaton Square to exceed $100 million in new contracts in 2026, achieving a growth trajectory surpassing 225% CAGR.

Transforming Critical Minerals Supply Chains

Founded in 2008, Silicon is trusted by corporations across US, UK, Europe, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, and Malaysia. The company specializes in sourcing hard-to-find materials, including:

- Rare earths
- High-purity oxides, fluorides, and specialist chemicals
- Specialty metals

- Advanced materials and semiconductor inputs

Integration with Klear's Capital Intelligence platform enables clients to:

- Gain end-to-end operational and financial visibility, linking sourcing to liquidity and treasury management
- Leverage AI-enabled global sourcing, presenting verified supply options with pricing, lead times, and alternative countries
- Access secure, confidential procurement, including Importer of Record services
- Simplify execution, with Eaton Square managing orders, procurement, logistics, and risk
- Benefit from transparent, cost-based sourcing fees

"The integration of Silicon with Klear is a game-changer for global supply chains," said Chris Hale, CEO of Klear. "By combining intelligence-driven sourcing with treasury and liquidity management, multinational clients gain agility, visibility, and confidence in securing critical minerals and advanced materials."

"Our partnership with Klear elevates Eaton Square beyond procurement," said Reece Adnams, CEO of Eaton Square. "Multinational clients can now manage high-consequence supply chains with end-to-end visibility, financial integration, and trusted execution."

How It Works

1. Clients provide requirements for critical minerals or advanced materials.
2. AI-enabled global search identifies verified supply options.
3. Supply options are presented with pricing, lead times, and alternative sourcing countries.
4. Payment strategy developed to ensure timely order and delivery.
5. Orders placed on behalf of clients, managing procurement and confidentiality.
6. Delivery managed through client logistics or Silicon's services.
7. Transparent sourcing fee applied based on product cost.

This workflow demonstrates how Silicon and Klear transform global supply chains into resilient, intelligence-driven networks while expediting trade finance and capital flow.

Critical Minerals and Energy Infrastructure

Critical minerals are central to energy infrastructure, advanced manufacturing, and national security. The Eaton Square + Silicon + Klear partnership mitigates geopolitical risk, reduces operational vulnerability, and maintains continuity across high-value supply chains.

Platforms integrating operational sourcing with intelligence-driven finance, such as Eaton Square with Silicon and Klear, empower clients to navigate complex supply chains with confidence and agility.

Eaton Square's Silicon is accelerating expansion into Europe, strengthening partnerships with multinational energy and industrial clients to deliver resilient critical minerals and advanced materials supply chains, supporting energy infrastructure security, manufacturing continuity, and mitigation of geopolitical risk.

About Eaton Square and Silicon
