Through this board role, he will contribute to strategic planning, awareness initiatives, and efforts designed to increase access to diagnostic clarity, evidence-based therapy, and family education.

Families navigating autism often face overwhelming challenges, including long waitlists, confusing insurance processes, inconsistent care models, and limited access to high quality providers. Radiant Autism Center was built specifically to address these pain points.

What Radiant Autism Center Provides for Families:

Radiant Autism Center offers clinically led, family focused ABA therapy and autism diagnostic services for children ages 18 months to 12 years. The center is known for making therapy more personal, accessible, and collaborative.

Services include:

ABA Therapy

Personalized, research-based behavioral therapy designed to strengthen communication, emotional regulation, social interaction, and daily living skills. Therapy is available in clinic and home settings, with individualized treatment plans tailored to each child's strengths and developmental goals.

ADOS-2 Autism Testing

In-house diagnostic evaluations using the gold standard ADOS-2 assessment tool. These evaluations provide families with clarity, direction, and confidence in understanding their child's needs.

Parent and Family Support

Weekly collaboration sessions, caregiver training, and ongoing guidance to empower parents with practical tools to support their child at home.

Radiant Autism Center accepts Medicaid and major insurance providers, addressing one of the most significant barriers families encounter when seeking autism services.

Solving the Real Problems Families Face After Diagnosis:

An autism diagnosis can bring uncertainty, fear, and frustration. Many parents describe feeling overwhelmed by fragmented information and disconnected providers. Radiant Autism Center was intentionally designed to eliminate those gaps.

The organization focuses on:

Fast intake processes that reduce long waiting periods
Clear and consistent communication with families

Ethical, clinically led care guided by experienced BCBA's
Truly individualized treatment plans
A supportive environment that feels personal and welcoming

Radiant Autism Center believes families should not have to navigate this journey alone. The center exists to walk hand in hand with parents through every stage, from diagnosis through developmental milestones.

"Parents are not just looking for therapy. They are looking for hope and partnership," Whitney added. "Our responsibility is to make sure families feel supported, informed, and confident every step of the way."

A Shared Commitment with The Owen Foundation:

The Owen Foundation shares a commitment to advocacy, awareness, and practical support for families impacted by autism. By joining the board, Whitney brings both operational leadership and firsthand insight into the evolving needs of families in Texas.

Radiant Autism Center's Continued Growth in Texas:

Radiant Autism Center continues to expand in response to growing demand for individualized autism services in North DFW. The organization's growth has been driven not by scale alone, but by a commitment to raising the bar for ethical, family centered ABA therapy.

Each child at Radiant receives a customized care plan designed around their specific strengths and needs. Parents remain deeply involved through weekly collaboration sessions and ongoing communication with clinical staff.
