Key Enhancements

1) Concept Clips

- Introduced in November 2025, Concept Clips are concise, high-impact video segments that break down difficult or intricate insurance concepts.
- Purpose: to make complex insurance topics easier to understand, retain, and apply.

2) Study Prescriptions

- A new study prescription program guides students after they complete all videos, unit exams, and the final exam.
- The prescriptions help students focus on the exact items they need to review, in consultation with instructors during office hours.
- Pilot testing showed highly effective results, with students reporting clearer paths to exam readiness.

3) AI-Assisted Study Companion (Partner: Ziggy)

- After exams are completed, Ziggy compiles a prioritized list of study items for the student to review with their instructor, formatted as a check-off list.
- The study prescription highlights the items illustrated in the prescription so students are better prepared to pass the Florida state exams.

Scheduling and Class Formats

- Our programs are self-paced and branded as “program learning,” enabling students to tailor a study schedule to fit their busy lives.
- Effective January 31st, all students will participate in an orientation with their instructor to set a personalized study schedule.
- Office hours have been expanded to accommodate the growing number of students. As Christopher P. Kazor, CIC, LUTCF, CDEI notes:

Here, we require students to review their study prescription with an instructor before they take their State Exam. The results have been outstanding.”

Christopher Kazor, Chief Academic Officer

“Over the years, I’ve taught insurance at several institutions before purchasing the Insurance School of Southwest Florida and rebranding it to the Insurance School of Tampa Bay. In many schools, once a student passes the final exam, they’re essentially left to figure things out on their own. Here, we require students to review their study prescription with an instructor before they take their State Exam. The results have been outstanding.”
