

COAX Software Named Among Top Web Development Companies in 2026 by Techreviewer.co

COAX Software was listed on Techreviewer.co's 2026 top web development firms, thanks to the recognition of efficient custom web solutions and UX audit services.

NORTHBROOK, IL, UNITED STATES, February 27, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Techreviewer.co has placed COAX Software on its list of the best web development companies for 2026. This independent research platform rates companies based on their technical skills, the quality of their service, their experience with projects, feedback from clients, and market presence.

"This recognition reflects what we work toward every day," said Serge Khmelovskyi, the CEO of COAX. "We build digital platforms around real user behavior and real business goals. Seeing that consistency recognized from the outside is meaningful to us."

Since 2010, COAX has been developing web solutions for businesses in travel, logistics, retail, finance, and other fields. The work they do is a mix of custom development and UX analysis, which are seen as one process instead of two separate tasks by the dedicated teams.

The CEO shared that for COAX Software, every project starts with discovery. The team reviews existing systems, finds usability problems, and sets and prioritizes improvement points early on. This helps shape the architecture, which needs to hold up as traffic grows and requirements change. From there, the focus shifts to clean code, responsive design, and performance.

The company does custom web development, builds responsive websites, optimizes performance, and provides ongoing support. Recommendations are based on behavioral data. As the team shared, the goal is to have something that grows with the company.
