

Meet CCww at Mobile World Congress 2026

BOURNEMOUTH, UNITED KINGDOM, February 27, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Communications Consultants Worldwide Limited (CCww), a global leader in wireless communications technology, today announced it will be at Mobile World Congress 2026 in Barcelona, Spain from 2-5 March 2026.

The Mobile World Congress is the world's largest event for the cellular telecommunications industry. Over 100,000 visitors participate annually in this event, where the latest innovations for cellular telecoms are introduced. CCww's has been present at the event, and its predecessors, for twenty five years.

At the event, CEO Richard Carter will be discussing its cutting-edge NTN NB-IoT Test Bench (Release 17/18), designed to accelerate the development and validation of satellite IoT user equipment (UE), as well as its NB-IoT and NTN NB-IoT UE protocol stacks and broader portfolio of 2G and IoT UE solutions. Visitors will have the opportunity to speak with the company's CEO about the company's products, custom development, integration, and support services.

"MWC is the ideal platform for us to connect with the cellular communications community," said Richard Carter, CEO, CCww. "Our focus on NTN connectivity moves from concept to commercial reality, our test tools and protocol expertise are helping customers get to market faster and with confidence. We look forward to meeting partners, customers, and prospects at the show."

CCww works with a number of leading industry partners and is an active member of 3GPP and the GSMA, contributing to the standards that underpin next-generation wireless connectivity. Visit CCww at the Mobile World Congress in Barcelona, Spain, 2-5 March 2026.
