With more than 45 years of lineage in German Shepherd breeding, Haus Amberg Shepherds blends European heritage with modern, responsible breeding practices. The kennel operates from its historic roots in Amberg, Germany, while also serving clients across the United States and worldwide from its headquarters in North Florida.

We believe that a German Shepherd should be more than beautiful. It must be healthy, sound in temperament, and trained for real-world life.”

Patrick Lockett

“We believe that a German Shepherd should be more than beautiful. It must be healthy, sound in temperament, and trained for real-world life,” said co-owner Patrick Lockett. From showline champions to highly driven working lines and devoted companion animals, each puppy begins life with careful socialization and optional specialized training to build confidence and connection.

Heritage Meets High Standards

Founded on decades of expertise, beginning with Johann “Hans” Eiban’s breeding program in 1969, Haus Amberg Shepherds continues a legacy of quality that spans generations. Today,

Patrick and Alishia Lockett carry forward that legacy with precision and passion, ensuring every puppy reflects the breed's best traits and meets rigorous health and temperament benchmarks.

-Showline & Working Line German Shepherds: Bred to SV standards with strong structure, high drive, and clear intelligence.

-Health-Tested & Personality-Assured: Every dog is evaluated for sound temperament, socialization, and physical well-being.

-Support from Start to Finish: Clients receive guidance throughout the selection, training, and lifelong care of their new companion.

Worldwide Community & Client Satisfaction

Clients across Europe, the United States, the Middle East, and beyond praise Haus Amberg Shepherds for its personalized care and responsible practices. Testimonials highlight the team's dedication to matching families with the right pup and supporting owners long after adoption.

"Our goal is to bring quality, temperament, and companionship into every home we touch," said Alishia Lockett. "Each litter reflects our commitment to the breed, to the individual, and to the future of German Shepherd excellence."
