

VideoPlus.ai Launches Redesigned Website to Bring AI Powered Video Creation to Global Audience

The refreshed platform delivers a faster, more intuitive experience for creators and marketing teams worldwide - powered by cutting edge AI video tools.

WA, UNITED STATES, February 28, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- VideoPlus.ai, the AI-powered video creation platform for modern content creators and marketing teams, announced the launch of its redesigned website. The new website marks a key step in VideoPlus.ai's global expansion, providing international users with a simpler and more intuitive entry point to the platform's ever-growing array of AI video tools.

The redesigned website is built around the needs of today's content-driven teams - from independent creators to enterprise marketing departments - who demand powerful creative tools without a steep learning curve. Users can now seamlessly access image to video AI, transforming static visuals into dynamic video content in seconds; video to video conversion to restyle or reimagine existing footage using AI; and an AI merge two images that merges multiple visual assets into cohesive, publish-ready compositions.

"Our mission has always been to make professional grade video creation accessible to everyone," said Chloej, manager at VideoPlus.ai "The new website reflects where our product is today - a comprehensive AI creative suite that empowers users to go from idea to finished video faster than ever. Whether you're a solo creator producing short form content or a marketing team scaling video output across campaigns, VideoPlus.ai has the tools to make it happen."

The revamped site also features an expanded resource hub with tutorials, use-case showcases, and transparent pricing tiers - all designed to help new users from any market get started without friction. With an interface optimized for both desktop and mobile, VideoPlus.ai is positioning itself as a go to platform for the next wave of AI-native video creation.
