

Pulse Medical Assistant School Expands to Birmingham Area with New 16-Week Program This Spring

Pulse Medical Assistant School will open a Trussville campus this spring, offering a 16-week medical assistant program in partnership with GameDay Men's Health.

BIRMINGHAM, AL, UNITED STATES, March 4, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Pulse Medical Assistant School will open its newest Alabama campus this spring in Trussville, bringing an in-depth 16-week medical assistant program to the Birmingham metro area.

The campus, located at 5048 Pinnacle Square, Suite 106, Trussville, AL 35235, will deliver a blended learning model that integrates online instruction with in-person lab work and clinical experience. The extended format allows students additional time to refine clinical techniques and administrative skills.

"Communities thrive when education and healthcare providers collaborate," said Chris Lofton, CEO of Zollege. "Our Birmingham-area expansion reflects our commitment to building strong local healthcare pipelines."

Students will complete hands-on training through a partnership with GameDay Men's Health – Trussville, working inside a professional medical setting and gaining exposure to patient intake, clinical support procedures, and operational workflow.

The Trussville campus is expected to serve students throughout Jefferson County and surrounding communities.

Enrollment for the spring term is currently underway. Apply here.
