The recognition reflects Altos Estates Group's performance representing buyers and sellers across Silicon Valley, one of the most competitive residential real estate markets in the United States.

Altos Estates Group serves clients throughout Santa Clara County, including Los Altos, Mountain View, Palo Alto, Sunnyvale, and San Jose. The team's approach combines data-driven market strategy, structured transaction management, and a listing plan designed to position each property effectively at launch.

A central component of the team's strategy is a story-driven marketing framework that presents each home as a distinct lifestyle opportunity. This process includes identifying the property's unique features and ideal buyer profile, professional staging and visual production, narrative-driven marketing content, and coordinated launch timing designed to maximize early buyer engagement.

"In a competitive market, results come from preparation, positioning, and execution," said Nick Roe, Broker Associate and Founder of Altos Estates Group. "Our focus is on helping each home stand out with a clear story and a disciplined strategy from the start."

In addition to its marketing approach, Altos Estates Group provides clients with real-time visibility into showing activity and transaction progress. The team utilizes its RoostHaven platform to support centralized communication and a more organized client experience throughout the buying and selling process.

The SCCAOR REAL Awards are presented annually to recognize members who demonstrate high levels of professional performance within the local market.
