Folds of Honor Boston is becoming Folds of Honor New England, to serve Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Vermont, and Maine.

BOSTON, MA, UNITED STATES, March 3, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The Boston Chapter of Folds of Honor, the national nonprofit organization whose mission is to provide educational scholarships to the spouses and children of fallen or disabled military service members and first responders, is proud to announce that it will now operate as the New England Chapter of Folds of Honor.

The name change reflects the chapter's mission to support military and first responder families across the six New England states: Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Vermont, and Maine. Despite being established as Folds of Honor Boston in 2024, the chapter has worked tirelessly to honor sacrifice and provide life-changing educational opportunities for families from throughout New England who have given so much in service to our country and communities.

“

Our mission never changes – to honor the sacrifice of military service members and first responders by educating their legacy through scholarships across all of New England.”

Will Fulton, Co-Founder and Co-Chairman of Folds of Honor New England

“We are thrilled to broaden our identity to better reflect the full scope of our work and the communities we serve,” said Will Fulton, Co-Founder and Co-Chairman of Folds of Honor New England. “Our mission never changes – to honor the sacrifice of military service members and first responders by educating their legacy through scholarships.”

With this new name, we reaffirm our commitment to supporting families throughout all of New England.”

As Folds of Honor New England, the chapter will continue its efforts to raise awareness and funding for scholarships that support private school tuition and tutoring (K-12), post-secondary education, vocational training, and advanced degrees, thereby providing access to educational opportunities for qualified recipients across the region.

“The dedication, commitment, and unwavering support by the outstanding Folds of Honor New England team has made a real difference in advancing our mission,” said Lt Col Dan Rooney, founder and CEO of Folds of Honor. “Working with Super Bowl quarterback Drake Maye and his corporate partner Betterment, plus PGA TOUR star Patrick Cantlay and his caddie Joe LaCava are just a few things this talented chapter has done. Their hard work and innovation are evident in everything they do.”

“New England Patriots quarterback and Ambassador of now Folds of Honor New England Drake Maye has already embodied the spirit of this evolution for us,” said Robbie Zalzneck, Chapter Director, Folds of Honor New England. “Not only has Drake lifted the spirits of football fans across New England, but for the past two years, he has generously funded 12 scholarships for two students in each New England state, demonstrating exactly what it means to support the entire region.”

This name change marks the chapter’s most significant commitment since its May 2024 inception and expands the organization’s ability to serve even more communities across New England.
