“Spring is one of the busiest seasons for moving and home improvement projects,” said Jon Shrair, Operations Manager at Bert Hill Mover. “Portable storage containers give homeowners the flexibility to pack on their own schedule while keeping their belongings secure during transitions like staging a home, renovating a room, or preparing for a move.”

Portable containers are commonly used for:

- Residential moves
- Decluttering and home organization
- Home staging prior to listing a property
- Temporary storage during renovations

Customers may load containers themselves or request assistance from Bert Hill Mover's professional moving team.

As the spring season approaches, demand for moving and storage services is increasing, so
