Tetyana Astashkina, General Partner, LearnLaunch Fund + Accelerator

Founded in 2013, LearnLaunch backs early-stage entrepreneurs transforming how people learn, teach, and build meaningful careers. The firm has invested in more than 90 education and workforce startups, reaching over 60 million learners worldwide, with 67% of portfolio companies led by women or founders from historically underserved communities.

LearnLaunch combines venture capital with an accelerator model that supports early-stage founders through mentorship, milestone-based funding, and connections to educators, employers, and industry partners. This approach allows companies to scale both their impact and commercial success, ensuring that investments translate into real-world results.

Being named to the IA 50 Emerging Impact Manager list reflects LearnLaunch's continued commitment to supporting founders who are reshaping learning and workforce pathways. The firm will continue to invest in early-stage entrepreneurs developing solutions that expand access, drive measurable outcomes, and create real opportunity for learners worldwide.
