The Business Research Company

Which Market Player Is Leading the Ventilation System Market Growth?

According to our research, Daikin Industries Ltd. led global sales in 2024 with a 5% market share. The Air Conditioning division of the company is completely involved in the ventilation system market, provides customers with comfortable spaces. Solutions extend even to the unique spaces of hospitals and kitchens as Daikin continues to meet the needs of various climates around the world.

How Concentrated Is the Ventilation System Market?

The market is fragmented, with the top 10 players accounting for 24% of total market revenue in 2024. This level of fragmented reflects the industry's high entry barriers, driven by region-specific building regulations, varied climate requirements, customization needs, and the presence of numerous small and mid-sized manufacturers catering to local demand. As global focus intensifies on energy efficiency, smart building integration, and indoor air quality compliance, consolidation, strategic alliances, and technology-driven differentiation are expected to gradually enhance the competitive positioning of major multinational vendors while preserving regional competition.
