The hospital is designed to follow Fear Free principles, focusing on minimizing stress and anxiety during veterinary visits through thoughtful facility design, handling techniques, and patient-centered care.

pets and families who call this area home.”

The April 23 ribbon cutting ceremony is intended as a business and civic event and will include remarks from hospital leadership and local officials, followed by light refreshments and an opportunity for attendees to tour the facility.

A separate community open house will be announced at a later date to welcome pet owners and families to experience the hospital.
