has announced an expansion of its in-home care services with the inclusion of skilled, licensed nursing professionals to its caregiving offerings. For families across Marietta, Roswell, and the surrounding communities, the presence of licensed nurses has been introduced to complement the compassionate, personalized support that has long been provided by the agency's caregiving team.

In-home care services have been expanded so that clinical-level nursing expertise can be delivered directly to clients' homes, allowing individuals with complex health needs to remain in familiar surroundings while receiving professional medical support.

With this addition, Homewatch CareGivers of East Cobb has been positioned to provide a broader spectrum of care that includes both traditional caregiving and licensed nursing assistance, enhancing the quality of care available to seniors, medically fragile adults, and those recovering from surgery or illness.

Throughout its service area, the agency has been recognized for the high standard of care maintained by its caregivers, who are thoroughly trained, backgroundchecked, and matched to clients based on individualized care plans. With the addition of licensed nurses, this approach has been further strengthened so that medical oversight, medication management, wound care support, and clinical assessments can be integrated into client routines when needed.

Families who have worked with Homewatch CareGivers of East Cobb have noted that having professional support in the home has eased the emotional strain that often accompanies caregiving responsibilities. With nurses now available to work alongside caregivers, clients with conditions such as diabetes, heart disease, or post-operative needs have been given access to more comprehensive support designed to promote safety and well-being without compromising independence.

This expansion reflects the agency's commitment to responsive, person-centered care that adapts as clients' needs change.
