Three-day flagship event to feature 100+ sessions on AI, agentic automation, and the future of CRM

BOSTON, MA, UNITED STATES, March 26, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ --

□Creatio, a global vendor of an agentic CRM and workflow platform with no-code and AI at its core, today announced the agenda for No-Code Days Florida: Agentic Leadership, its flagship event exploring how organizations are operationalizing AI and autonomous agents across the enterprise.

From June 11–13 at The Ritz-Carlton Orlando, Grande Lakes, □No-Code Days□Florida: Agentic Leadership□will□feature□100+ sessions across□five□tracks focused on real-world applications of AI, no-code and□autonomous AI agents□that□that equip enterprises to□build advantage□and lead in the AI-driven□economy. The event agenda spans key tracks shaping the next generation of enterprise software and operating models, including:

- AI Leadership – frameworks and strategies for building AI-first organizations
- New Era CRM – real-world examples of AI-native CRM transforming revenue teams
- The Future of Financial Services – industry discussions on AI-augmented banking and compliance
- AI and No-Code Learning Labs – hands-on workshops and practitioner sessions
- LATAM in the Age of AI – regional strategies for scaling AI adoption

The event’s main-stage program will also include an exclusive keynote interview with Michael Phelps, the most decorated athlete in history. In the session “Passion. Discipline. Execution. How to Lead in the New Age,” Phelps will reflect on the mindset required for sustained performance and resilience, sharing perspectives that will resonate with business leaders navigating today’s evolving enterprise landscape.

During his time on stage, Phelps will share lessons drawn from his career about consistency, preparation, and the work required to perform at the highest level over time. His perspective speaks directly to the challenges leaders face today as they guide organizations through rapid technological change, increasing complexity, and the growing pressure to deliver results in the AI economy.

“Michael’s story is fundamentally about sustained execution under pressure and the discipline required to perform over the long term,” said Andie Dovgan, Chief Growth Officer at Creatio. “Those lessons resonate strongly with today’s business leaders as they navigate AI adoption, organizational change, and new operating models driven by agentic technologies. His perspective aligns very closely with the leadership mindset required in the AI economy.”

The three-day event will include two days of the Creatio Annual Conference followed by a dedicated Partner Day, featuring executive keynotes, customer success stories, hands-on product sessions, and strategic planning workshops for partners and enterprise leaders. Together, these tracks give enterprises a clear framework for applying autonomous agents and AI to drive real business outcomes.

Attendance is open to the Creatio community, but capacity is limited. Early registration is encouraged.
