Throughout the holiday weekend, the church will also activate a series of surprise pop-up outreach moments across metro Atlanta, designed to randomly bless individuals and families in need and extend the spirit of Easter beyond the sanctuary walls.

Anchored in both faith and culture, this year's theme, Sinners: Three Days That Changed Everything, reflects the redemptive message at the heart of the Easter story while also offering a contemporary lens on transformation and grace.

"Resurrection Weekend is not just a celebration. It is a call to renewal, reflection, and realignment," said Dr. Jamal Bryant, senior pastor of New Birth. "We are creating space for people to encounter God in a fresh way while also demonstrating what it means to serve and uplift our community in tangible ways."

The weekend begins with Good Friday services, including the Seven Last Words experience, followed by an evening worship encounter designed to center on reflection and spiritual renewal.

On Saturday, New Birth will host a large-scale Community Impact Day, featuring free food distributions for hundreds of families, a health and wellness fair, fitness activations, and a Family Fun Day with activities for all ages. The Bullseye Black Market will also return, showcasing more
