based full-service law firm launched in June 2025, today announced the addition of ten attorneys, bringing the firm to 20+ lawyers practicing across more than 20 areas of law — cementing Ardis Law's position as a full-service firm capable of serving clients across the full range of their legal needs. Nine of the ten attorneys join from Taylor Duma, LLP (formerly Taylor English Duma) including its co-founding partner Scott Duma. The group expands Ardis Law's depth across commercial litigation, corporate transactions, mergers and acquisitions, commercial and residential real estate, intellectual property, bankruptcy, product liability, white-collar defense, nonprofit law, election law, probate and estate planning, securities arbitration, financial institution representation, private equity, franchising, and alcohol and regulated products — serving clients across industries including technology, manufacturing, financial services, health care, hospitality, entertainment, and franchising.

Joining as partners are Wayne Bond, Scott Duma, Jessica Ehrlich, George Gaskin, Mark Moeller, Edward Newsom, Frank Virgin, and Jeff Woodward. Frank Strickland, one of Georgia's most distinguished lawyers with more than 60 years of practice, joins as Senior Counsel. Mitch Funk, a veteran of the firm's Alcohol, Food & Regulated Products practice, returns as an Associate after serving as Director of Compliance for New Realm Brewing. For clients who have worked with these attorneys at larger firms, the message is straightforward: nothing is lost in the move. With more than 20 practice areas under one roof and a team that has collectively handled matters ranging from $1.5 billion class actions to complex cross-border transactions, Ardis Law delivers the breadth and depth of a full-service firm — with the responsiveness and cohesion that comes from a boutique firm built on collegiality and long-standing relationships.

"The attorneys joining Ardis Law today are not simply colleagues; they are people who have worked alongside Ardis' founders for years, watched them practice and lead with integrity and clarity, and have made a deliberate choice to build something together," said Scott Duma. CEO Kerry Stumpe added, "Our growth strategy has always been straightforward: build a firm that can meet clients wherever they are, across any legal matter, without asking them to go somewhere else. Every attorney we've added — from our founding group to John Rezac and Michael Johnson earlier this year, to these ten exceptional lawyers today — has been chosen because they deepen our capability in a meaningful way."

Scott Duma, Esq

The firm was founded in 2025 by several lawyers from Taylor Duma, including former Managing Partner Michele Stumpe. Earlier this year, the firm added John Rezac, a bankruptcy attorney, and Michael Johnson, a former Judge. Today's addition of ten more lawyers brings Ardis Law to over 20 attorneys. "We are excited to be joined by attorneys who we all respect and who have watched our momentum firsthand, who have been our champions and cheerleaders from day one, and who have now made the choice to be part of it," said founder Matt Rosenkoff.
