

TikTok Growth Consultant Narad Bastola Shares Structured Monetization System for Creators

A structured system helping creators move beyond views and build sustainable income through strategic content and monetization

COLUMBUS, OH, UNITED STATES, April 12, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Narad Bastola, a TikTok Growth and Monetization Consultant, is introducing a structured approach designed to help creators move beyond viral content and build sustainable income systems.

While many creators focus only on views and followers, Bastola emphasizes that growth alone does not guarantee monetization. According to him, the real issue is not lack of reach, but lack of structure.

“TikTok provides audience, not income. Without a system, creators remain stuck in cycles of posting without results,” Bastola explains.

His approach focuses on three key layers: content positioning, audience targeting, and monetization systems. Instead of chasing trends, creators are guided to align their content with clear goals and revenue pathways.

This structured model has already helped creators identify gaps in their content strategy, improve engagement, and build clearer monetization paths through brand deals, services, and digital offers.

Bastola also highlights a common mistake among creators — repeating similar content without adapting to audience needs. He believes that new problem-focused content and strategic positioning are now more important than viral formats alone.

As TikTok continues evolving, creators who understand system-based growth will have a long-term advantage over those relying only on trends.
