Celebrating its 16th year, the US-based program is the world's largest recognition program for education technology, recognizing the biggest names in edtech.

This award highlights AristotleK12's commitment to helping school districts protect student data while providing actionable visibility across their digital environments. "Congratulations to the EdTech Awards 2026 finalists and winners! We're no longer asking if technology will transform learning—it already has. The leaders honored here are defining what comes next," said Victor Rivero, who as Editor-in-Chief of EdTech Digest, oversees the program. "The future of learning isn't something we're waiting for—it's unfolding right now, shaped by innovators who aren't reacting to change, but creating it across classrooms, workplaces, and beyond,” said Rivero.

The EdTech Awards were established in 2010 to recognize, acknowledge, and celebrate the most exceptional innovators, leaders, and trendsetters in education technology. This year’s finalists and winners were narrowed from the larger field and judged based on various criteria, including: pedagogical workability, efficacy and results, support, clarity, value and potential.

“We’re incredibly grateful for this recognition,” said Lucy Anderholm, Chief Operating Officer of Sergeant Laboratories, Inc. “Safeguarding student data privacy isn’t optional—it’s foundational. This recognition reflects our continued focus on building tools that give schools full transparency and confidence in how student data is managed across platforms.”
