ISTANBUL, TURKEY, April 18, 2026

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Applications Open for the “M. Gazi Yaşargil Young Neurosurgeon Award,” One of the World’s Most Prestigious Neurosurgery Honors

An award named after the “Neurosurgeon of the Century” invites young scientists

The Department of Neurosurgery at the Faculty of Medicine, Yeditepe University, has opened applications for the “M. Gazi Yaşargil Young Neurosurgeon Award.”

Now in its fifth year, the award recognizes outstanding work in the field of microneurosurgery and is named in honor of Prof. Dr. M. Gazi Yaşargil, a pioneer of modern neurosurgery widely regarded as the “Neurosurgeon of the Century.”

Prof. Dr. M. Gazi Yaşargil played a transformative role in the field through the development of microsurgical techniques and the widespread adoption of the surgical microscope in neurosurgery. His innovations—particularly in the treatment of cerebrovascular diseases and brain tumors—have become standard practice worldwide. Throughout his career, he contributed to the treatment of thousands of patients and left a lasting legacy in neurosurgery through the generations of surgeons he trained.

According to a statement from the university, scientific studies in microneurosurgery and microsurgical anatomy will be considered for the award. Submissions will be evaluated by an independent international scientific committee.
