product suite with the launch of a War & SRCC (Strikes, Riots, and Civil Commotion) cargo coverage product. Live since early April, this new offering empowers brokers, shippers, and freight forwarders to secure vital protection in an increasingly complex global landscape.

The product addresses a critical gap in the market by providing thorough, accurately priced coverage for risks often excluded from standard cargo policies. With limits up to \$20 million for Air and Ocean conveyances and $2.5 million for War on Land, Loadsure's latest solution is designed to meet the market's demand for speed and precision, ensuring the freight industry remains resilient despite civil unrest, revolution, or hostile acts.

“The global supply chain is facing unprecedented pressure from geopolitical shifts,” said Johnny McCord, Loadsure CEO and Founder. “Our mission has always been to meet the industry where it is, providing the agility and data-driven insights needed to manage risk in real-time. This new coverage isn't just a product; it's a commitment to ensuring our partners can move goods confidently, no matter how the global landscape evolves.”

By leveraging an automated workflow, Loadsure allows users to quote and bind coverage for one or many shipments in a timeframe that reflects the urgency of today's logistics environment. This streamlined approach is essential for businesses navigating volatile regions where conditions can change rapidly.

“By bringing War and SRCC coverage into our on-demand product suite, we are removing the friction for insurance brokers in the procurement process and delivering the high-limit protection our European and global clients require to keep trade moving safely,” said Ben Brough, Loadsure's Director of Europe.
