LONDON, LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, April 22, 2026

/EINPresswire.com/ -- The Data Center Anti-Conference (DCAC) early-bird registration for DCAC Europe 2026: Full

Throttle, is available for a limited time with preferred pricing through April 27 for its London debut at the Roundhouse. The event brings together the people shaping the future of data centers, energy, and digital infrastructure for two days of high-impact conversation and networking.

DCAC is where the people doing the work come together to challenge assumptions, share what's actually working, and push the industry forward in real time.”

Kirk Offel, CEO, Overwatch Mission Critical

Known for its raw, community-first approach, DCAC convenes the people building the digital infrastructure today: operators, investors, developers, energy providers and the people who make it work, for more than 35 hours of high-impact networking and conversation. This is not a traditional conference, it is a working room of decision-makers shaping what gets built next.

The conversations in Europe are different, where power and sustainability define what's possible. At the center of that reality are the operators, developers, and partners who serve as the connective force of the industry linking capital, strategy, and execution. Their decisions do not stay local; they increasingly shape global markets, investment flows, and long-term infrastructure outcomes.

“The industry isn’t slowing down, it’s accelerating,” said Kirk Offel. “Full Throttle reflects where we are right now. The demand for infrastructure, talent, and execution is moving faster than traditional thinking can keep up. DCAC is where the people doing the work come together to challenge assumptions, share what’s actually working, and push the industry forward in real time.”

In addition to the main event, the DCAC Europe Charity Golf Tournament will return, offering attendees another opportunity to connect, give back, and build relationships in a more relaxed setting.

Attendees can also take advantage of official DCAC hotel blocks with special event rates at the London Marriott Regents Park and Holiday Inn Camden Lock, available now through the DCAC website.

This year in London, that room expands with deeper representation and broader participation from the organizations shaping what comes next. DCAC is grounded in the belief: the future of digital infrastructure will be defined by the people doing the work.
