Lake.com, the travel marketplace inspiring outdoor getaways across 10,000 destinations — including cities, lakes, and national and state parks — has announced a new integration with Hospitable, the property management system built to simplify short-term rental operations.

With this integration, professional property managers can now connect Hospitable and Lake.com in minutes, instantly publish listings, and keep operations synced — from calendars and pricing to messaging and cleaning workflows. It’s a seamless solution designed to help teams focus more on delivering exceptional guest experiences and less on juggling tools.

A Deeper Partnership, Built for Scale

Lake.com and Hospitable first teamed up in 2024 with a light Hospitable integration, allowing individual homeowners to import Airbnb listings to Lake.com with a single click. Now, in response to growing demand from professional managers, the partnership has come full circle to complete the integration with the full-service property management platform. This deeper integration brings Lake.com’s unique distribution channel to the professional tools already in use by managers, making it easier than ever to grow and streamline.

“Property managers want growth without added complexity,” said David Ciccarelli, CEO at Lake.com.

“With this integration, managers can reach a new audience of outdoor travelers on Lake.com and keep operations centralized in Hospitable — from calendars and bookings to communications and cleaning schedules. It’s fast to connect, easy to manage, and designed to help hosts win more of the right stays.”

What Property Managers Can Expect

The free integration is designed to be simple, powerful, and fast. Once connected, properties sync in just a few minutes, with calendars, rates, and availability updating every five minutes.

With this integration, managers can:

Manage everything inside Hospitable — properties, calendars, messages, bookings, and cleanings

Reach more travelers through Lake.com, which includes destination guides across 10,000+ outdoor spots

Attract family-focused guests looking for weekend getaways or longer stays by the water

Simplify payouts — Lake.com accepts guest payments and pays hosts directly to their Stripe-connected bank account after the first night’s stay

Streamline operations — all guest messaging and cleaning schedules stay synced through Hospitable

Deliver consistent guest experiences with accurate availability and real-time updates

“We are thrilled to join forces with Lake.com to bring our automated solutions to their property owners,” said Pierre-Camille Hamana, CEO of Hospitable. “Our mission is to gift hosts their time back, and this partnership allows us to extend that mission to a broader audience. We look forward to helping Lake.com hosts save time and improve their operations through our technology.”
