LONDON, LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, April 29, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Henri-Lloyd Launches SS26, featuring James Aiken and Gill Meller

To mark the start of the boating season, Henri-Lloyd introduces a collection rooted in authenticity, outdoor connection, and life on and beyond the water.

Henri-Lloyd is excited to release its eagerly anticipated Spring / Summer 26 collection.

SS26 introduces a more authentic expression of Henri-Lloyd. It pursues something more natural and lived-in, designed for life on and beyond the water. Worn naturally through moments of movement, craft and connection to the sea.

ss26

Technical clothing at its core, SS26 craves connection with the outdoors and the unique presence and wellbeing of being immersed in nature.

Fittingly, the new collection was shot in Mallorca aboard a Spirit 68 with sailor / adventurer James Aiken and Gill Meller, the award-winning chef, food writer, food stylist and cookery teacher.

Both James and Gill are huge advocates for outdoor connection, embracing nature and connecting through cooking outdoors over fire. Both are also long-time admirers of Henri-Lloyd.

Set along Mallorca's coastline, the SS26 shoot included a simple journey with James and Gill by boat from Palma to a remote beach -- unfolding through real moments of sailing, anchoring, cooking and time by the sea. No checking the time, no rush to leave -- just that feeling of being exactly where you're meant to be.

And that's exactly what Marine Classics is all about. Effortless clothing to be worn naturally throughout the journey wherever it may take you.
