This exhibit is happening in conjunction with the premiere of documentary film, “The Making of America.” Directed by Monique Linder, and produced by OMG Studios in partnership with Minnesota Humanities Center, the film explores how Enlightenment-era systems of knowledge—art, science, architecture, and cartography—produced enduring frameworks for racial slavery, territorial extraction, and Indigenous dispossession in what became the United States of America. Exhibition submissions may be featured in the film.

Art is history. We must find the moral courage to confront our history and create a better world that our children will inherit.”
