

Pulse Medical Assistant School to Open Huntsville Campus This Month

Pulse Medical Assistant School will open a Huntsville campus with a 16-week medical assistant program and in-person labs at 185 Chateau Dr SW.

HUNTSVILLE, AL, UNITED STATES, May 5, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- orth Alabama is gaining a new on-ramp into healthcare careers this spring as Pulse Medical Assistant School prepares to launch its Huntsville campus at 185 Chateau Dr SW. The program brings Pulse's 16-week, online-first medical assistant curriculum to the Tennessee Valley, designed for adults who want a fast, affordable, hands-on path into the medical field.

Designed for students who can't put their lives on hold, the program blends weekly live online instruction with four full-day, in-person Saturday labs and a required 80-hour externship inside a working medical office. Through the partnership that anchors the campus, students train in a affiliated office building alongside practicing clinicians, gaining real exposure to vital signs, EKG basics, phlebotomy, infection control, patient intake and documentation, and the rhythms of a live clinical setting.

"Training alongside experienced professionals gives students a clear advantage when entering the workforce," said Chris Lofton, CEO of Zollege. "Our Huntsville campus is designed to provide that real-world experience while keeping education accessible and efficient."

The program includes the cost of the National Healthcareer Association's Certified Clinical Medical Assistant (CCMA) exam — so graduates leave nationally certified and debt-free. The
