Built on Experience, Grown Through Reputation

First-Rate's roots go back to Jason Sarcione's early years working as a crewmember for a small moving company in the Greater Boston area. After seeing firsthand how stressful moves were for clients — and how physically demanding the work was for crews — he set out to build a company that did both sides better. First-Rate Moving & Storage opened its doors in 2015, and the business has grown each year since.

"Moving is one of the most stressful things people go through, especially when there's a home sale or purchase tied to it," said Jason Sarcione, Owner and Founder of First-Rate Moving &

Storage. "Our job is to take that part off your plate. Methuen is a natural next step for us — it's a community we already know well, and we're looking forward to being the Methuen movers people here can count on."

Why Customers Choose First-Rate

First-Rate Moving & Storage has built its reputation on a few simple commitments:

Straight-forward pricing with no hidden charges

Experienced professionals who know how to handle fragile and high-value items

Customer care and courtesy as everyday priorities, not afterthoughts

Efficiency through experience that keeps moves on time and on budget

Every move is planned on-site so the crew can account for the specifics — stairs, tight doorways, fragile pieces, parking logistics — before the truck is loaded. That up-front planning is a big part of why First-Rate's customers come back and refer their friends.
