

Smith Honored With Two Awards From Comparably

The company was recognized for its commitment to supporting women and diversity within the workplace

HOUSTON, TX, UNITED STATES, May 8, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Smith, a leading global distributor of electronic components and semiconductors, today announces that it was named to Comparably's lists of Best Companies for Women and Best Companies for Diversity. It is the company's third time being recognized for each award.

Smith's employees are the driving force behind our success, and we build upon that success by supporting their wellbeing, satisfaction, and continual growth in their careers”

Denise Halaska, Chief People Officer at Smith

Based on anonymous employee feedback, these awards reflect Smith's dedication to empowering its employees and fostering an inclusive environment. Smith ranked as the #74 best company for diversity and #91 best company for women among similarly sized businesses. Its overall A+ rating places it among the top five percent globally.

“Smith's employees are the driving force behind our success, and we build upon that success by supporting their wellbeing, satisfaction, and continual growth in their careers,” said Denise Halaska, Chief People Officer at Smith. “We are honored to receive these recognitions as we continue to enhance our people-focused initiatives and make sure our team members feel welcome and valued in their roles.”

As a global company spanning four continents, Smith has built a strong community across its various offices, distribution centers, and departments. The company has received numerous recognitions from Comparably over the years, including twelve awards in 2025, ranging from overall company culture and employee happiness to company outlook and career growth. Nick Bedford, Smith's Chief Executive Officer, also ranked as the 28th best CEO, and its sales team was ranked #13.

“Smith’s investments in employee satisfaction and development help us ensure our customers receive exceptional service in fulfilling their supply chain needs,” said Denise. “We are excited to continue to embrace the unique talents of our global workforce to drive our innovation and long-term growth.”
