As part of the partnership’s ongoing community efforts, the Orlando Magic and Frank Gay Services also recently provided one local family a brand-new HVAC system (photo/video link above), helping provide comfort and stability to a family supported by RISE Community Solutions. The family was also presented tickets to an Orlando Magic game.

The family’s home is owned by RISE Community Solutions, which has supported more than 1,300 families experiencing homelessness through its Pathways to Home program. Pathways to Home is one of the only Permanent Supportive Housing (PSH) program in Central Florida specifically for families with children, with 100 percent of graduates remaining permanently housed five years later.

The home receiving the new HVAC unit is one of five single-family PSH residences in Winter Springs, where a reliable HVAC system is critical as the family manages significant medical and life challenges.

“It means a lot,” said RISE Community Solutions Program Director Kelvin Coachman. “Frank Gay Services is an amazing company and seeing them give back to our community and support participants in our programs is truly heartwarming.”
