

Autoland Puts Convertibles Market Data in the Spotlight as Summer Demand Builds

Autoland Jacksonville analysts compiled Florida's new and used convertible market data to offer a snapshot of this sector.

JACKSONVILLE, FL, UNITED STATES, May 19, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Florida is one of the states where open-top cars fit the climate and lifestyle, but that does not guarantee strong appreciation. The Autoland's car experts compiled data on Florida's new and used convertible market to offer a snapshot of this sector.

In 2026, new convertibles are generally holding or slightly increasing their price tags, with many manufacturers raising base MSRPs by around 1–2 percent compared with 2025, even as higher interest rates and tariffs keep affordability in focus.

The latest CarGurus market data shows used convertibles at $45,225 on average, up 13.68% year over year, with a 4.75% gain over the last 90 days.

Open-air freedom shouldn't cost the farm. Our deals put the wind in your hair and keep cash in your pocket.”

Andre Zaharchenya, the dealership's general manager

Used convertibles in Jacksonville are behaving differently from the broader used-car market. According to the Autoland's internal data, many mainstream vehicles have seen modest price declines early in the year. Popular soft-top models such as the Mazda MX-5 Miata and certain Ford Mustang convertibles are retaining value more robustly, reflecting steady seasonal demand and limited long-term supply. Together, that means buyers are seeing a narrowing gap between new-model pricing and well-maintained used convertibles, making this a notable moment for shoppers who want open-air driving without paying peak new-car premiums. Dealership buyers' preferences reportedly lean toward the Mazda MX-5 Miata, Ford Mustang, and BMW Z4, according to company analysts. Autoland Makes Summer Driving in Open Air Affordable

For many shoppers, the biggest hesitation around buying a convertible is cost, not desire. Autoland's seasonal financing directly tackles this by offering low down payments starting as low as 10% of the vehicle cost, flexible monthly terms up to 120 months, and generous trade-in bonuses that slash the financed amount, putting the thrill of open-air driving within reach without budget strain.

"We know many shoppers dream about owning a convertible," said Andre Zaharchenya, GM at Autoland Jacksonville. "That is why we are focusing on low upfront costs, flexible financing, and trade-in opportunities that can help customers save money while upgrading into the vehicle they really want."

This timely approach aligns perfectly with rising summer demand, when convertibles top many wish lists for road trips and coastal cruises. By easing financing now, Autoland empowers buyers to act while inventory shines and excitement peaks.

Autoland Jax dealership recommends looking beyond the eye-catching styling to ensure the vehicle fits as a practical daily driver. Test the roof's smooth operation, assess trunk space with the top down for everyday usability, and verify cabin comfort across warm summer days and cooler evenings - these checks can significantly boost long-term satisfaction and enjoyment.

Another key strategy is prioritizing the car's overall condition, service history, and verified mileage before finalizing financing. A well-maintained convertible holds up better through multiple seasons, offering greater value and reliability for buyers planning extended ownership.

Shoppers leveraging trade-ins should obtain a pre-visit valuation estimate to clearly understand the potential equity, empowering confident negotiations and seamless deals at Autoland.

Autoland's summer convertible financing event is now underway, giving drivers a timely opportunity to explore open-air vehicles while seasonal demand is high. Whether customers are looking for a sporty roadster, a stylish cruiser, or a premium drop-top, Autoland is ready to help them drive into summer with confidence and joy.
