PicoWay® is in a different category from what has been available locally. I wanted to offer my clients something that actually works faster and feels better, and this is it.”

location, making it the only provider in the market to offer the Candela PicoWay® system. The PicoWay®, named the 2022 Aesthetic Awards Device of the Year and featured on NBC's Today show, delivers faster results with less discomfort than traditional Q-switch laser technology.

Anchorage residents seeking tattoo removal have until now had access only to Q-switch laser devices. The PicoWay® system operates in trillionths of a second, using a photoacoustic effect rather than heat to break down ink particles. The result is fewer treatments, less risk of skin damage and the ability to treat a wider range of ink colors, including difficult-to-remove blue and green pigments.

"Anchorage has needed this for a long time and I am thrilled to be the one to bring it here," said Briahna Jenkins, owner of Revived Laser Studio. "After receiving laser tattoo removal on a Q-Switch personally, the pain and lack of results was frustrating. PicoWay® is in a different category from what has been available locally. I wanted to offer my clients something that actually works faster and feels better, and this is it."

In addition to tattoo removal, the PicoWay® system addresses benign pigmented lesions and supports skin rejuvenation through its Resolve and Resolve Fusion fractional treatments. Treatments typically range from 15 to 20 minutes with low to no downtime, making them accessible for clients with busy schedules.
