How Cloud Adoption is Fueling Market Expansion in Bank Mandate Management
One of the primary forces driving the bank mandate management market is the rising adoption of cloud-based solutions. These solutions, hosted on the internet, allow organizations to access, store, and manage data without depending on local infrastructure. Their increasing popularity stems from cost efficiencies, as companies pay only for the resources they use, significantly reducing IT expenses. Within this framework, bank mandate management plays a crucial role by enabling accurate and secure handling of bank authorizations, optimizing payment workflows, and minimizing operational risks in cloud-hosted financial systems. This functionality is becoming indispensable as businesses expand their digital financial operations and require seamless, compliant transaction management.

Supporting this trend, in January 2025, AAG IT Services, a UK-based non-government organization, reported a notable rise in cloud adoption among small and medium-sized businesses (SMBs). In 2023, approximately 63% of workloads and 62% of data were hosted on public clouds, up from 57% and 56% in 2022, demonstrating ongoing migration toward cloud platforms. This growing embrace of cloud technology is a key factor propelling the growth of the bank mandate management market.
