Affordable Without Sacrificing Expert Oversight

AI can show where a student struggles. An expert tutor knows whether they need a concept rebuild, pacing help, or a new way to see the problem."

Dr. Kevin Cooper, Founder, go Prep Tutoring

Most test prep forces a tradeoff: self-service apps lack accountability, and private tutoring at $100 to $250 per session is out of reach for many families. go Prep built Hybrid Guided™ to eliminate that choice.

Hybrid Guided™ gives students adaptive, AI-personalized practice that tracks every wrong answer by topic and subtopic, then generates AI-powered explanations in plain language. Before each weekly tutoring session, a certified go Prep Education Partner reviews that student's performance data, opening the exact questions where the student is struggling and coaching them through the problem, the pattern, and the fix.

"AI can show where a student struggles. An expert tutor knows whether they need a concept rebuild, pacing help, or a new way to see the problem." said Dr. Kevin Cooper, Founder, go Prep Tutoring

A New Category: Affordable Expert-Led Test Prep

The test prep market has historically divided into two segments: low-cost self-service apps and high-cost private tutoring. Hybrid Guided™ occupies a third position, combining AI precision and human judgment at a price point accessible to the broader market.

The base platform subscription is $99 per month with no long-term contract. Students can add private tutoring sessions at $150 per hour, staffed by experienced, expert-level Education Partners with education backgrounds and strong standardized test credentials.

Autonomous Infrastructure Enables Rapid National Scaling go Prep's Education Partner network, currently eight certified tutors, is onboarded entirely through an AI-native backend. New partners complete intake, training, and competency certification without any live support, enabling rapid expansion across the country while maintaining consistent quality.

"One of the biggest constraints in tutoring is hiring and training. We built the backend differently. Tutor intake, training, credentialing, and onboarding are fully autonomous. That lets us expand rapidly across the country while keeping quality consistent," said Kiran Mithani, Director of Education, go Prep
