

G3 Enterprises Expands 3PL Logistics Support with AIB Certified Warehouse Facilities and Contract Packaging Capabilities

AIB Certified warehouse facilities, contract packaging, and dock scheduling support food, beverage, and packaged goods supply chains.

MODESTO, CA, UNITED STATES, June 5, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- G3 Enterprises continues to support beverage, food, and packaged goods brands with integrated third-party logistics services that combine AIB Certified warehouse facilities, product handling, fulfillment support, contract packaging, and dock scheduling coordination.

Wrapped beverage packaging moves through production as finished cases are prepared for distribution.

Through its 3PL warehouse services, G3 Logistics provides warehousing and fulfillment solutions designed for companies that need dependable storage, handling, and distribution support. The company's capabilities include beverage and food storage through AIB Certified facilities, along with product handling and packaging services that help customers manage inventory, protect product quality, and support efficient movement through the supply chain.

G3's contract packaging capabilities further expand the company's ability to serve beverage and packaged goods brands. From variety pack support to custom packaging needs, G3 Logistics provides flexible solutions for companies looking to streamline production, manage seasonal demand, or improve the efficiency of how finished products move to market.

"Food and beverage businesses are looking for logistics partners who can do more than store products," said Brad Busam, VP/GM of Global Logistics at G3 Enterprises. "They need a team that understands product handling, packaging timelines, inventory movement, and the importance of reliable scheduling. Our 3PL and contract packaging services are designed to help companies simplify those moving parts under one experienced logistics partner."

Dock scheduling also plays an important role in keeping warehouse operations organized and efficient. By coordinating inbound and outbound activity and leveraging AI solutions, G3 helps customers, carriers, and warehouse teams reduce delays, improve communication, and better manage product flow through each stage of the logistics process.

For beverage and packaged goods companies, working with a logistics provider that understands product quality, timing, and operational visibility can help reduce friction across the supply chain. G3's combination of warehousing, packaging, fulfillment, and transportation experience provides customers with practical support from storage through delivery.

"Operational consistency matters at every point in the logistics process," said Nicole Ostertag, Senior Director of Supply Chain Strategy at G3 Enterprises. "Whether a company needs warehouse space, packaging support, or better coordination at the dock, our goal is to provide clear communication and dependable execution."

G3 Enterprises serves companies across multiple industries through a broad portfolio of packaging, logistics, real estate, and supply chain services. Its logistics division continues to support companies looking for scalable, reliable, and professionally managed solutions for product handling, storage, packaging, and distribution.
