During a special recognition presentation, Dr. Fitterman presented Cassata with an award acknowledging his devotion to philanthropy and his unwavering support of Northwell Health Huntington Hospital. The recognition highlighted years of charitable contributions and community involvement that have positively impacted patients, healthcare professionals, and local families.

As President of The Cassata Organization, Cassata oversees a real estate development and property management company with assets and developments exceeding $500 million across Long Island and Florida. The organization has developed and managed residential, commercial, industrial, retail, hospitality, and senior housing properties throughout both regions.

In addition to his business leadership, Cassata has become widely respected for his charitable work through The Cassata Foundation. Alongside his wife Carolyn Cassata, he has supported numerous healthcare, educational, and emergency response initiatives benefiting communities throughout New York and Florida.

For more than eight years, Rosario and Carolyn Cassata have proudly supported Northwell Health and Huntington Hospital through charitable donations and community partnerships designed to strengthen healthcare services and patient care programs. Their contributions have supported cancer survivorship initiatives, hospital programs, frontline healthcare workers, and community outreach efforts.

During the COVID-19 pandemic, Cassata provided donations of protective equipment, meals for healthcare staff, and financial assistance to Huntington Hospital and other organizations serving Long Island residents.

His support during this critical period reflected a deep appreciation for the dedication and sacrifice of healthcare professionals.

Honoree Award

Proclamation from Congressman LaLota

Dr. Fitterman praised Cassata's commitment to giving back to the community and recognized the positive impact his philanthropy continues to have on Huntington Hospital and the residents it serves.

Beyond healthcare philanthropy, The Cassata Foundation has supported scholarship programs, food donations, first responder initiatives, and the donation of LifeVac emergency airway devices to schools, police departments, and YMCA facilities throughout Florida and New York.

Rosario S. Cassata's recognition by Northwell Health Huntington Hospital reflects a lifetime commitment to leadership, philanthropy, and strengthening the communities of Long Island and Florida through charitable service and business development.

At the event Mr. Cassata was also awarded a Proclamation from Congressman Nick LaLota.
