“Zach’s unique combination of technical expertise, maintenance leadership, and aftermarket experience makes him an outstanding addition to our team,” said Steve Main, CRO of Mente Group. “He understands the operational and ownership challenges our clients face and brings the hands-on knowledge and industry relationships that will strengthen the value we deliver every day.”

An NBAA Top 40 Under 40 recipient, Ungerleider holds an FAA Airframe & Powerplant certificate as well as a Private Pilot certificate with instrument, high-performance, and complex endorsements. He has performed maintenance on 36 different models of aircraft and previously served as Director of Maintenance for multiple Cessna Citations.

His technical background includes work within the Maintenance Engineering department at Textron Aviation, where he completed MSG-3 certification and Citation Sovereign+/Latitude Maintenance Initial Training through FlightSafety International.

Ungerleider also has extensive aftermarket sales experience with Textron Aviation and Honeywell Aerospace. At Textron, he managed ProAdvantage Programs, maintenance, and aftermarket modifications. At Honeywell Aerospace, he represented the MSP (Maintenance Service Plan) portfolio for HTF7000, TFE731, and CFE738 engines.

He earned an undergraduate degree in Aviation Business Administration and is completing his MBA at Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University.
