

TripSitter Launches Directory Connecting People With Psychedelic Practitioners

BROOKLYN, NY, UNITED STATES, June 8, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- TripSitter today announced the launch of its online directory designed to help people find psychedelic practitioners, guides, coaches, facilitators, and integration specialists in their area.

Available at tripsitter.cc, the platform allows practitioners to create profiles and connect with individuals interested in psychedelic-assisted growth, preparation, integration support, and related wellness practices.

The directory was created to address a common problem in the psychedelic community: finding experienced professionals through trusted recommendations rather than scattered social media posts, online forums, or word of mouth.

John Biggs, Founder of TripSitter

“Many people are interested in psychedelic experiences but struggle to find qualified practitioners they can trust,” said founder John Biggs. “TripSitter gives practitioners a place to share their background and approach while making it easier for people to find support that fits their needs.”

TripSitter currently features practitioners across the United States and plans to expand its listings over time. Practitioners can create profiles that include information about their services, training, locations, specialties, and contact information.

“When I was dealing with clinical depression, I benefited from psychedelic therapy and the guidance of skilled practitioners,” said Biggs. “Finding that support was far more difficult than it should have been. I built TripSitter to help others connect with experienced professionals without spending weeks searching through websites, social media posts, and personal referrals."

To encourage early participation, practitioner listings are currently available free of charge.
