The alumni event is one in a series of events and announcements celebrating Healing Springs Ranch’s ten-year anniversary.

According to Co-founder and CEO Rachel Graham, “As we celebrate ten years, we not only honor the alumni who have crossed our threshold to find lasting recovery — but also commit to improving access to care at every opportunity. In a climate where healthcare can be challenging, we believe in creating as many pathways to mental health and addiction treatment as possible. We have tremendous alums/families, staff, vendors, industry friends/partners that support Healing Springs Ranch.

Sister Hazel has a long history of speaking to mental health and addiction challenges, premiering the band’s song “You Won’t See Me Again” to poignantly address the issue in 2018. The band is joining the Healing Springs Alumni reunion event to continue that legacy and continue serving as a voice of support. “Mental health is health. I believe we all have difficult things we have to face as humans. The folks at Healing Springs Ranch embody the whole person approach and not a one-size-fits-all mentality. It is for that reason that we want to help put a spotlight on mental
