

Bolton Services of WNC Shares Summer HVAC Preparation Tips for Asheville Homes and Businesses

ASHEVILLE, NC, UNITED STATES, June 10, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- As warmer months place heavier demand on cooling systems, Bolton Services of WNC, Inc. is highlighting the summer preparation steps that help Asheville homes and businesses stay comfortable through peak heat — from routine maintenance and system checks to airflow troubleshooting and repair planning.

Across Asheville, summer comfort depends on how well cooling equipment performs before peak heat arrives. Smart preparation includes checking filters, reviewing thermostat settings, clearing debris from outdoor units, listening for unusual sounds, and addressing weak airflow before small issues become urgent service calls.

Energy savings are part of the picture too. Property owners can reduce cooling strain by replacing dirty filters, keeping vents open, programming thermostats efficiently, sealing obvious air leaks, and scheduling maintenance before equipment works harder in the hottest stretch of the season.

When systems show signs of uneven cooling, rising indoor temperatures, short cycling, or reduced airflow, timely air conditioning repair in Asheville becomes a priority. Catching these signs early helps homeowners and businesses avoid last-minute breakdowns during the busiest part of the season.
