

High Rock Upland Preserve Welcomes Summer Hunters and Outdoor Families

North Carolina's all-season outdoor preserve opens summer with guided hunts, quail fields, ATV trails, and fresh-pick farm experiences near the city.

LEXINGTON, NC, UNITED STATES, June 10, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Lexington, NC, June 2, 2026, High Rock Upland Game Preserve is inviting hunters, families, and outdoor enthusiasts to make the most of the summer season at its scenic property just minutes from the city. With guided hunts, rolling fields stocked with upland birds, ATV trails, and Kari's Berries farm on site, the preserve offers a full slate of activities for visitors looking to reconnect with the land before the heart of fall hunting season arrives.

Summer is often overlooked as a hunting and scouting window, but experienced sportsmen know it is one of the best times to walk the grounds, study bird behavior, and refine shooting skills ahead of the season. High Rock Upland maintains its pheasant, quail, and chukar habitats year-round, giving hunters of all skill levels access to authentic field experiences in well-maintained, purposefully managed terrain.

For those beginning to plan their fall calendar, understanding north carolina quail season and how the preserve fits into the regional hunting landscape is a natural starting point. High Rock Upland's grounds are designed to deliver consistent upland bird encounters whether a visitor is stepping onto a field for the first time or returning for a season's tradition.

Families who are not yet ready to hunt can explore the same open spaces through hiking trails and ATV routes that wind through shaded groves and open hillsides. Kari's Berries provides a hands-on harvest experience where visitors can pick fresh blueberries and vegetables straight from the field, making the preserve a destination for everyone in the group regardless of age or outdoor experience level.

Groups interested in a structured outdoor experience are encouraged to book through the preserve's expert guides. Choosing skilled hunting guides north carolina offers is one of the most reliable ways to improve field technique, stay safe on the grounds, and leave with lasting memories rooted in the tradition of upland hunting.

High Rock Upland also accommodates private events, corporate retreats, and family gatherings through flexible land rental options. The combination of scenic natural beauty, multiple activities, and accessible location makes the preserve one of the most versatile hunting preserves north carolina has to offer for groups of any size.
