The event, called the “Big Texas Bash,” will take place from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 21711 Berry Ranch Drive and is expected to draw attendees from across Northwest Houston.

The event will feature multiple food trucks, live music throughout the day and a wide range of family-friendly attractions, including a petting zoo, bounce houses, yard games and local vendors. Guests will also be able to tour six model homes from top Houston builders: K. Hovnanian Homes, Village Builders and Risewell Homes, offering a comprehensive look at available home designs and features.

“Grand openings are important, but this is about more than opening doors—it’s about giving people a real sense of what life here feels like,” said Nour Barazi of Ryko Development. “We want to create something big enough for the whole community to enjoy, where families can spend the day, explore the homes and experience the kind of lifestyle Oakberry Trails offers ”

Visitors who register in advance will receive complimentary food and beverage tickets and be entered into a series of prize drawings scheduled throughout the event. A limited number of complimentary tickets are available, so guests are encouraged to register early. Additional opportunities to win will be available through interactive experiences on-site, including a social media photo challenge.

The grand opening marks a significant milestone for Oakberry Trails, a 262-acre master-planned community designed to meet growing demand for new housing options in the northwest

Houston area.

Oakberry Trails is being developed by Ryko Development, a Houston-based developer with more than three decades of experience in residential community development. The event is free and open to the public. Advance registration is highly encouraged.
