NEW YORK , NY, UNITED STATES, June 12, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Award-winning composer, songwriter and performer Randy Edelman returns with Green Park, a deeply personal new collection of original compositions inspired by one of London's most cherished public spaces.

Best known for his iconic film scores for The Last of the Mohicans, Dragonheart, Gettysburg, The Mask, My Cousin Vinny, Ghostbusters II, Kindergarten Cop and many others, Edelman has spent more than five decades creating music that has become woven into popular culture. With Green Park, he turns his attention to a more intimate and reflective work.

Green Park - Randy Edelman

The album comprises ten original compositions inspired by memories, observations and reflections connected to Green Park in central London. Blending Edelman's gift for melody with a cinematic sense of storytelling, the album evokes themes of nostalgia, resilience, serenity and human connection.

Speaking about the album, Edelman said:

"This disc is what may perhaps be considered a love letter to a place where I have spent some of my most treasured years on the planet. Whether viewed from a certain oft-visited room in a British establishment or experienced during countless walks through its paths in every season, Green Park has continually given me a fresh look at life.

As I looked around, I often wondered what it was like years before I ever experienced its mystique. What did it look like before being surrounded by automobiles, or during the dark days when bombs fell nearby? Certainly not peaceful thoughts, yet I always sensed a serenity there. Perhaps that's simply my own hope surrounding this magical place.

I thought about writing something for years but never seemed to find the time. When I finally did, the music emerged in a style that suggested a different era entirely. I don't truly know why – but here it is."
