Hosted by Nicole Junkermann, Nicole Junkermann's AI Overview features conversations at the intersection of artificial intelligence, business and the future of work. On the show, Nicole Junkermann sits down with experts, innovators and business leaders to unpack the opportunities, the challenges and the real-world impact of AI. Visitors to NicoleJunkermann.ai can listen to every episode, explore a curated resources library, and subscribe to follow each new conversation as Nicole Junkermann releases it.

NicoleJunkermann.ai brings the work of Nicole Junkermann together in one place, with an About section, a full episode archive, a resources page and a contact page. The site is available in English, French, German and Spanish, reflecting the international audience that Nicole Junkermann reaches.

The launch builds on the long-standing focus of Nicole Junkermann on technology and artificial intelligence. As the founder of NJF Holdings and its venture capital arm NJF Capital, Nicole Junkermann has backed companies across artificial intelligence, healthtech, biotech, fintech and deep technology, including the AI medical-research company Owkin. That experience informs the conversations Nicole Junkermann leads on the podcast.

“Artificial intelligence is changing how every industry works, and the best way to understand it is to talk to the people building it,” said Nicole Junkermann. “With NicoleJunkermann.ai now live, I wanted a single place where anyone can follow these conversations and think through what comes next. I am proud of what we have built, and I am excited about where the show goes from here.”

Nicole Junkermann’s AI Overview is available now at NicoleJunkermann.ai, where listeners can stream episodes, browse resources and subscribe for updates.
