Over the course of his career, Nagelberg and his co-counsel have recovered more than $1 billion for injured clients across California and the United States. His case history includes a $27 million jury verdict against the City of San Francisco in a fatal bus accident, a $25 million jury verdict in a motorcycle accident case in which video evidence exposed a false account given to the CHP and bad faith liability was opened against two insurers who refused to pay policy limits, and a $21 million settlement on behalf of a Metrolink train passenger who suffered catastrophic injuries, a matter requiring eight years of litigation and the identification of eight defendants including major component manufacturers.

"I've spent my career standing up for injury victims against insurance companies and corporate defendants, and that work is as important to me today as it was when I started," said Nagelberg. "Quantum Law Group has built an outstanding reputation for sophisticated, client-first litigation, and I look forward to contributing to that work and to the clients who count on this firm."

Nagelberg's practice encompasses the full range of personal injury matters, including motor vehicle accidents, motorcycle accidents, catastrophic and spinal cord injuries, wrongful death, product liability, premises liability, traumatic brain injury, medical malpractice, and nursing home abuse. He is an active member of the State Bar of California, the American Bar Association, the Consumer Attorneys Association of Los Angeles, and the Association for Trial Lawyers of America. He earned his Juris Doctor from Whittier College School of Law and was admitted to the California Bar in 1980.
