

Visionet Congratulates IDB Invest's Igor Valentim on Being Named a NextCIO Award Winner

CRANBURY, NJ, UNITED STATES, June 17, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Foundry's CIO has named Igor Valentim, Head of Data Management, Analytics and AI and IT Governance at IDB Invest, as a 2026 Next CIO Award Winner. The award honors rising technology executives who are shaping the future of digital leadership through innovation, strategic vision, and measurable organizational impact.

Visionet nominated Valentim in recognition of his outstanding leadership in driving digital innovation, operational excellence, and business impact at IDB Invest. His recognition reflects his leadership in advancing data and AI capabilities while driving innovation across the organization.

"We are delighted to see Igor receive this well-deserved recognition," said Shariq Rehman, Head of Strategic Business, Global Alliances at Visionet. "As a strategic partner, we've had the privilege of working alongside Igor and witnessing his commitment to leveraging technology as a catalyst for business value."

"I am deeply honored to receive the NextCIO recognition", said Igor Valentim. "Though I receive it knowing that no one achieves meaningful results alone: behind every successful transformation are sponsors who trust the vision, teams who bring it to life, and partners who strengthen it along the way. My gratitude goes to all of them- internal and external alike. Above all, this milestone reaffirms our commitment to using data, analytics, and AI in service of IDB Invest's mission: To finance and mobilize private investments to advance development, opportunities, and sustainable growth in Latin America and the Caribbean."

Through a strong partnership focused on innovation and transformation, Visionet remains committed to supporting IDB Invest's digital journey and continued success.
