

New Website Helps Homeowners Find the Right Trees and Plants Without the Overwhelm

TreeCityNursery.com Introduces a Simpler Way to Shop for Landscape Plants and Garden Favorites

MCMINNVILLE, TN, UNITED STATES, June 19, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Choosing plants for a landscape project should be exciting—not overwhelming.

Yet many homeowners find themselves sorting through hundreds of plant options while trying to answer a much simpler question:

"What is the best plant for my situation?"

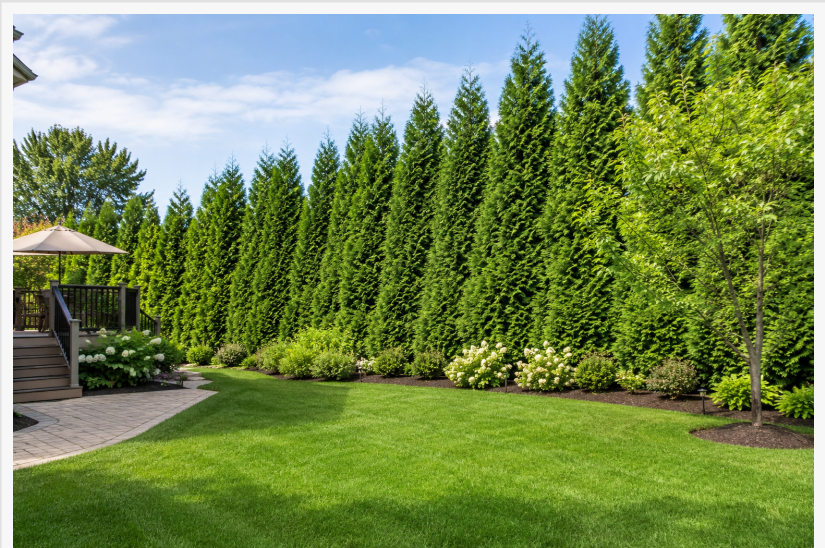

Whether the goal is creating privacy, adding shade, attracting pollinators, solving a difficult landscape challenge, or simply making a yard more beautiful, finding the right plants can quickly become confusing.

That's the problem TreeCityNursery.com was created to solve.

The newly launched website offers a simpler, solution-based approach to shopping for landscape plants. Rather than overwhelming visitors with endless choices, TreeCityNursery.com helps homeowners and gardeners discover plants based on the results they want to achieve.

"Many people know what they want their landscape to do, but they aren't always sure which plants will get them there," said Cheryl Jones. "We created TreeCityNursery.com to make plant selection easier, more enjoyable, and more approachable for homeowners and gardeners."

Visitors can explore collections organized around common landscaping goals, including:

A row of Thuja Green Giant arborvitae transforms an open backyard into a more private and inviting outdoor retreat. Fast-growing and evergreen, these trees provide natural screening and year-round beauty for homeowners.

The website features carefully selected trees, shrubs, perennials, vines, and groundcovers plants chosen for their performance, beauty, and versatility in home landscapes.

Vinca minor is a popular low-maintenance groundcover plant valued for its evergreen foliage, spreading habit, and violet-blue blooms. Often used for erosion control, weed suppression, and landscaping beneath trees and shrubs.

Instead of asking shoppers to become plant experts, TreeCityNursery.com helps connect them with proven solutions for real-world gardening needs.
