

CEPA Announces Lifetime Achievement Award for Logistics Plus Founder and Chairman Jim Berlin

Berlin will receive the award for a lifetime commitment to global peace and security on October 7th at the annual CEPA Honors gala in Washington, DC.

ERIE, PA, UNITED STATES, June 23, 2026 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Logistics Plus, Inc. (LP), a global leader in transportation, logistics, and unique supply chain solutions, is pleased to share that The Center for European Policy Analysis (CEPA) will be honoring Logistics Plus Founder and Chairman Jim Berlin with its Lifetime Achievement Award for a lifetime commitment to global peace and security at the annual CEPA Honors event in Washington, DC.

Jim has spent his career proving that business can be a force for good in the world, not just in words, but in action.”

Yuriy Ostapyak

This year's CEPA Honors will take place on the evening of October 7th as a black-tie, intimate event at the East Hall of Union Station, paying homage to America's 250th celebrations throughout the year. The gala will be chaired by Howard G. Buffett, Chairman and CEO of The Howard G. Buffett Foundation; Gen. Chris Cavoli, former Supreme Allied Commander Europe and Commander of U.S. European Command; and Brian Moynihan, Chair and CEO of Bank of America. CEPA will also honor H.E. Alexander Stubb, President of the Republic of Finland, and Börje Ekholm, President & CEO of Ericsson Group, with Global Impact Awards, and Filmmaker Mstyslav Chernov with its Freedom Fighter Award.

"Jim has spent his career proving that business can be a force for good in the world, not just in words, but in action," said Yuriy Ostapyak, CEO of Logistics Plus. "His commitment to Ukraine and to the broader mission of a secure, democratic Europe is something I have witnessed firsthand. This recognition from CEPA reflects exactly the kind of leader Jim is, and no one here at LP is surprised. We're all extremely proud."
