By organizing the market into distinct, functional sectors, iPMI Global enables precise procurement and partnership strategies. The June 2026 Directory features several key classifications that drive the international service chain:

iPMI Carriers and Healthcare Insurance Management: Comprehensive intelligence on underwriters and insurance management firms providing the foundational coverage for global clients.

Assistance Services: Specialized firms dedicated to emergency medical support and travel assistance, ensuring patient safety across borders.

Air Ambulance, Repatriation, and Ground Ambulance: Dedicated categories for global operators providing critical medical transportation and repatriation services across all terrains.

Cost Containment and Claims Management: Strategic partners focused on network negotiation, claims solutions, and specialized logistics for complex international cases.

Insurtech and Fintech (Insurance Technology): The digital vanguard of the industry, featuring technology providers driving digital transformation and operational innovation.

Pharmacy Benefits Management (PBM): Essential service providers that round out the medical care continuum by ensuring efficient global medication access.

Christopher Knight, CEO of iPMI Global, emphasized the directory's role as a catalyst for trust in an era of unprecedented global mobility. "In a market defined by global mobility, seamless network access is non-negotiable," Knight stated. "Our directory cuts through the noise, providing a focused, intelligence-backed platform where the world's most crucial payers and providers can connect. This is more than a list; it is the strategic starting point for every executive looking to secure and expand their international service chain."

The directory is continually updated to deliver current market data and company profiles, facilitating the robust, reliable partnerships necessary to support the growing population of expatriates, business travellers, and international organizations.

How do I apply to join the iPMI Global provider network?

Engagement Protocol: Access and Application

Executives and procurement officers can utilize the directory's detailed contact information to source new partners and service providers directly. By leveraging the integrated contact details within the network, firms can bypass traditional gatekeepers to initiate high-level B2B discussions and secure new customers.

For organizations seeking to be featured within this elite global network, a formal application process is required. To apply, companies must email ipmi@ipmimagazine.com with the following information:

A current company brochure.

Recent professional recommendations.

Supporting business information to validate the organization's value proposition.
