governance platform, today announced the appointment of Vahé Torossian to its Board of Directors. Torossian brings more than three decades of experience scaling global technology businesses, building enterprise partnerships, and leading go-to-market strategy across North America, Europe, and Asia Pacific.

Torossian spent 31 years at Microsoft, where he held a series of senior global leadership roles including President of Microsoft Western Europe, Corporate Vice President responsible for the company's worldwide SMB and partner ecosystem, and Corporate Vice President of Microsoft Business Applications — the division behind Dynamics 365 and the Power Platform. Following Microsoft, he served as President and subsequently Deputy CEO at Builder.ai, where he led global revenue and partnerships. He currently serves as Venture Partner at Tola Capital, a Seattle-based firm investing in early-stage AI and enterprise software companies.

"Vahé has operated at the intersection of enterprise technology and go-to-market strategy for decades," said Emre Kazim, Co-CEO and Co-Founder of Holistic AI. "He has led multibillion-dollar businesses through technology transitions and built the kind of customer and partner relationships that define category leaders. As we scale our platform and deepen our enterprise relationships globally, his perspective will be invaluable."

"AI governance is far more than a compliance checkbox — it determines whether an AI strategy succeeds or fails at scale. I've seen the consequences for organizations that treat it as an afterthought," said Torossian. "Holistic AI has built what the market actually needs: a platform designed from the ground up to give enterprises the visibility, control, and accountability to move fast without losing oversight. That is why I am joining the Board."

Torossian holds an MBA from the University of Chicago Booth School of Business, with additional degrees from INSEAD and ISG Paris.
